This week I will be traveling to Paris, Texas to tour Turner Industries. During the tour the group will be hearing more about the welding training program that was developed in conjunction with Turner Industries and the local workforce board. While there I hope to learn more about the process of setting up a quality program that is specifically dedicated to the development of our young workers. We are dedicated to making sure that everyone in our workforce has the necessary skills they need in order to perform at their best possible level.

If you have a need for advanced skills training for your employees I hope that you will be in touch with KEDC and let us know what those needs are so that we can begin investigating possible training opportunities for you.

Thank you!
